KILLED ON MARE ISLAND.

The Filling House Blown Up---Twelve Men Killed and Three Others Injured.

Irish Faction Fight at Tralee---East Africa Company Abandons Uganda.

Rumored Disaster on Lake Minnetonka---A West Virginia Shooting Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—A powder explosion has occurred at Mare Island navy yard. Twelve people are reported killed and a number wounded. The explosion occurred at 11.30 this morning at the house called the filling house, where shells are filled. Mr. Hutchinson, the man in charge, and eleven sailors were killed, also three fatally wounded. The acting gunner, George Huttinger, a powder boy, and all the sailors that were killed or injured, belonged to the United States steamer Boston.

Settled Out of Court.

NEW YORK, June 13.—A special to the Herald from Norton, W.V., says: W. R. Davidson was shot and killed on Saturday by Rev. Jno. Paynall, a crippled Baptist preacher. Considerable bad feeling had existed for some time between them, growing out of a dispute between their families. It had been arranged to settle their differences in court, and a trial was to have begun yesterday. On the way to the court house, Davidson and Paynall got into an altercation about the merits of the case, which resulted in the latter drawing a pistol and shooting his opponent.

Irish Faction Fight.

DUBLIN, June 13.—While William Redmond and Henry Harrison, members of Parliament, were addressing a Parnellite meeting from a wagonette at Tralee to-day, a crowd of anti-Parnellites attacked them and tried to disperse the meeting. A free fight ensued, in which many persons were injured. The arrival of police averted a serious riot.

Will Get His Reward.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 13.—Geo. V. Massey, of this state, who so strongly advocated the interest of President Harrison at the Minneapolis convention, it is rumored here, has been officially notified that he will receive a judgeship on the supreme court bench, made vacant by the death of Justice Bradley.

Uganda Abandoned.

LONDON, June 13.—The British East Africa Company has sent orders to Captain Lugard to abandon Uganda. It is believed that all of Captain Lugard's dispatches were intercepted by the anti-English party blocking the route from Uganda to the coast.

Ten People Killed.

MADRID, June 13.—At Melina yesterday, while service was being held in church, lightning struck the edifice, instantly killing ten people and injuring many others in the mad rush from the falling walls. The priest and altar were untouched.

Seventy-five Lives Lost.

NEW YORK, June 13.—A special to the Herald from Minneapolis, Minn., says: A rumor reached here late last night that an excursion steamer on Lake Minnetonka had sunk, and that seventy-fives were lost.

HON. G. A. KIRKPATRICK.

The New Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario---Who He Is.

Lieut.-Col. the Hon. George Airly Kirkpatrick, Q. C., M. P., who was sworn in as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario on the 30th May, and of whom an excellent outline portrait is here given, was born in Kingston, Ontario, Sept. 13, 1844. He is the fourth son of the late Thomas Kirkpatrick, Esq., Q. C., who came from Coolmine, County Dublin, Ireland. Mr. Kirkpatrick finished his education at Trinity College, Dublin, graduating with very high honors. He studied and practiced law in Kingston, and always took an active part in militia matters. Mr. Kirkpatrick was first returned to the House for Frontenac in 1870. At the general election of 1872 he was returned by acclamation; again returned in 1874, in 1878, and by acclamation at the last general election. Perceiving his courtesy, dignity and address, and his acute knowledge of parliamentary procedure, he was selected Speaker, on Feb. 8, 1883. As a Speaker he was dignified, impartial and effective, and he always held the reins of the House with a firm hand. He married first on Oct. 5, 1865, Miss Frances Jane, daughter of the late Hon. John Macauley. She died on the 20th of January, 1877. He married again on the 26th of September, 1883, Miss Isabel Louisa, youngest daughter of the Hon. Sir David L. Macpherson, Senator. In politics, it hardly need be said, Mr. Kirkpatrick has always been a Conservative. Sir Oliver Mowat has expressed himself much pleased with Mr. Kirkpatrick's appointment as Lieutenant-Governor.

THE CHICAGO HOGS.

The Big and Little Packers and the Railway Settle all Disputes.

CHICAGO, June 13.—By the action taken yesterday, all the differences previously existing between the Chicago Junction railways and the Union Stock Yards Company, Armour, Swift and Morris, constituting the "Big Three," and the factions to be known in history as the small packers, have been healed. Armour, Swift and Morris will receive the $3,000,000 in stock promised them by the Stock Yards Company, the objection previously entered by the small packers being removed. The latter band together in this as in other matters, and will receive from the Stock Yards Company stock to the amount of their value to the yards. In other words, it is worth $3,000,000 to the yards to retain the plants of Armour, Swift and Morris, with profits accruing therefrom, therefore, it is worth as much to retain smaller packers as their business is worth, compared to that of the "Big Three," the $3,000,000 paid the latter being taken as the unit. All plants of all the packers will remain at the Union Yards. The use of either the Tolleston lands or the Stickney track at any time in the near future for stock yards or packing purposes will be determined by contested action on the part of the three sides of the triangle, to which the Union Yards and harmonized packers, big and little, can now be likened. The deal is closed, the papers signed, sealed and delivered, and nothing remains to be done but to rate the value of the small packers to the Union Yards and pay them the money.

Drowned in Toronto Bay.

TORONTO, June 13.—Frederick Wing, aged 20, and Eva Berkinshaw, aged 18, members of very respectable families, engaged a boat yesterday from James Connacher and went on the bay. They did not return. About 11 o'clock word came to Connacher that one of his boats was stranded in a cut near the western gap, and a man's hat near it. Search was made without result last night and renewed early this morning. The bodies were found about 9 o'clock.

Weather in the Interior.

BARKERVILLE, B.C., June 13.—Thunder showers, otherwise fine.

QUESNELEE, June 13.—Clear and hot, but beginning to blow.

SODA CREEK, June 13.—Cloudy and warm. Indication of thunder storm.

ASHCROFT, June 13.—Clear and hot.

YALE, June 13.—The Fraser river has risen over three feet since Friday last. Weather hot, 92 in the shade to-day. The water is coming up rapidly, and has risen from four to six inches since midnight.

LYTTON, June 13.—The weather yesterday and to-day has been very warm, and the river is rising rapidly.

In Halifax Dry Dock.

HALIFAX, June 13.—The "Blake," the flagship of the British North American squadron, went into the dry dock here this morning, to have her bottom examined and painted. She is the largest ship ever placed in the dry dock on this side of the Atlantic, being 9000 tons. A large crowd witnessed the operation of docking her, which was done without a hitch.

Hot in Montreal.

MONTREAL, June 13.—The weather here to-day has been excessively hot. Thermometer 90 in the shade.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

The Verdict Found by the Jury in the Case of Mrs. Brown on Trial at Nanaimo.

A Sentence of Five Years in the Penitentiary Pronounced on the Prisoner.

Conclusion of the Evidence---Addresses by Counsel and the Presiding Judge.

NANAIMO, June 13.—The Brown murder case was resumed on Saturday. Dr. Watson was re-called and testified to the bruises found on Mrs. Brown.

Mr. Campbell then opened the case for the defence.

Dr. Bell Campbell gave scientific evidence which occupied all the morning. The prisoner did not appear to be so composed as on previous days of the trial.

Mr. Campbell addressed the jury for the defence and spoke of the responsibilities of his position. He alluded to the position the prisoner stood in and called the attention of the jury to the fact that they would not be justified in bringing in a verdict of "guilty" unless they were perfectly justified according to the evidence that had been produced before them. He dealt in a touching manner on the facts as they appeared against the prisoner. He went into minute details as to what constituted "murder," and "manslaughter." The question for the jury was; was it "homicide" or did Brown die from natural causes. Dr. Walkem was a very careful and conscientious gentleman and he claimed that Brown died from asphyxia. He gave a detailed account of the marks on the throat.

Counsel proceeded to analyse the evidence given by the doctor, which he attempted to explain was not definite. He wanted the jury to feel as he did, that Mrs. Brown took no part in the death of Brown and there had been no scuffle, as was clearly proven, but might not Darrington have struck Brown on the side of the head, where the bruise appeared, and Mrs. Brown not have witnessed it. There is every possibility that Brown died from natural causes, resulting from the spree. He contended where there was a doubt the jury had no right to deprive the prisoner of her life or her liberty. The evidence the crown had submitted showed that there was no certainty of murder having been committed. All the witnesses were unanimous in stating that Darrington and Brown were great friends, so it was clear there was no motive for the crime. If they did find a case of manslaughter he failed to see how they could refrain from attaching it to the man who had committed suicide. The prisoner was in an advanced state of life and the probabilities are that she will not live many years longer, and should the jury deprive her of the last years of her life it would be a terrible thing. What did Darrington commit suicide for? Because he killed Brown. May God help you to bring in a true verdict.

Mr. Fell addressed the jury on behalf of the crown at considerable length. Unless the offence of a crime is brought home to a prisoner the crown does not want a verdict of "guilty." The responsibility of the death of John Brown was clearly proven to have rested between two persons. He then dealt with the evidence of the doctors, which he submitted clearly showed the cause of death. There were marks upon Brown, Darrington and the prisoner, which was sufficient evidence that a fight had occurred between the three, so that both assisted in the death of Brown. The fact of the carpet being wrapped round the body showed it was only used for one purpose, viz., for the removal of the body. The question for the jury was whether the crime committed was "murder" or "manslaughter," both of which crimes he defined. He asked the jury not to bring in a verdict of murder, in mercy to the prisoner, but continuing he said, "I do ask you to bring in a verdict of manslaughter." It was clear the prisoner had taken part in the fray.

His Lordship in summing up the case referred to the indictment, and explained what the charge was contained therein, and if the crime was done with malice aforethought they would find her guilty of murder, but if not with malice aforethought, they would find the prisoner guilty of manslaughter. If the jury were satisfied that she was not guilty of either crime they would acquit her. They must remember that the prisoner was entitled to the benefit of any reasonable doubt. Sometimes juries think that any doubt is enough, but that is not so; it must be in proportion to any crime charged. He could not more fully define what constituted murder than had already been explained by Mr. Fell and Mr. Campbell. Both these learned gentlemen had brought out all the facts connected with the case. If they (the jury) liked to take the responsibility of setting the prisoner free he could not say anything against it. He referred to the medical evidence, which had been very clear, and read the statement made by the prisoner to Dr. Walkem, and asked the jury if they believed the prisoner did not know what had happened. If the jury thought the crime was committed during the heat of passion they would be justified in reducing it to the lesser crime of manslaughter. He commended them for the patience they had displayed througout the case and hoped their sense of justice would enable them to bring in a true verdict. The case was a very peculiar one and there was a woman in it, but the law knows no sex. There had been plenty of whisky in the house at the time and his lordship claimed 40 per cent. of the crime heard by him was due to whisky. The jury then retired.

The sentences of the other prisoners found guilty were: Williams, larceny on two indictments, two years for the first offence and 1 year for the second, to be served in the penitentiary. F. Leigh, on a like charge, six months. Herald, perjury, three years in the penitentiary. W. Trounce, indecent assault, eighteen months, hard labor.

The jury returned at 6 o'clock with a verdict of manslaughter, and the prisoner was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. Prisoner asked if she could appeal and was answered in the affirmative.

DOMINION CAPITAL.

The Session May Last Till September—The Caron Scandal Again.

OTTAWA, June 13.—Mercier has decided to enter public life, not as a leader, but with a view of defending himself against prosecutions which are made against him. His opponents are threatening to expel him and a lively time is expected.

The Government here feel much annoyed over the notice of questions given by Cartwright regarding the Caron scandal. This will place the documents on the votes and proceedings in Hansard, and in addition to this, the whole question will be brought up on going into supply. The discussion will then last for a week, perhaps two.

This has been the hotest day of the season, 95 deg. in the shade.

Sir Richard Cartwright stated to-day that with the present progress of Government business in the House, with two batches of supplementary estimates and resolutions to come down, it would be the first of September before prorogation would come around.

It is understood that after Sir Richard Cartwright gets his questions answered by the Government, in regard to the Caron scandal, he will move a motion going into supply, embodying the whole question. This will give an opportunity to discuss the whole question. It will lengthen the session two weeks.

BARRIERS BURNED AWAY.

Indian Shacks Cremated at Westminster—A Sneak Thief's Work.

NEW WESTMINSTER, June 13.—The Indian shacks infected with smallpox were burned Saturday night. Mayor Townsend attended and gave formal orders and the firemen applied the the torches. It took six hours to reduce the shacks to ashes. All the firemen, as a precaution, were previously vaccinated.

In the district court this morning two Japs were fined each $50 and sentenced to three months imprisonment for supplying liquor to Indians at Port Guichon.

George Thompson, farmer, living near Chilliwhack, missing several days, turned up all right an Saturday.

A sneak thief stole one hundred dollars in money and a valuable gold watch and rings from the residence of Mrs. Capt. Odin this morning.

NANAIMO NEWS.

Oddfellows Attend Church—Knights of Pythias Decoration Day.

NANAIMO, June 13.—The turn out by the Canadian Order of Oddfellows yesterday for the purpose of attending divine service at the Methodist church, was very large indeed. The members were adorned with full regalia and the sight was a most pleasant one. It is surprising how an order only a few months old could grow so rapidly, and considering only one lodge mustered, the turn out would surpass many of the older established orders in the city. Rev. W. W. Leer preached a sermon suited to the occasion.

The Knights of Pythias of Nanaimo and district assembled en masse at the lodge rooms at Commercial street yesterday. The occasion was the annual decoration of the graves of departed brethren. The procession, a lengthy one, was headed by the Knights of Pythias brass band, which played sacred marches en route to the cemetery. A large concourse of citizens followed the procession to its destination and the cemetery grounds were almost packed. Dr. Good preached the memorial sermon and while the Knights were decorating the graves with choice flowers the band was engaged in rendering sacred selections.

Miss Lawson, principal of the Girls' school, gave her class a treat on Saturday by way of a picnic. The selection of Newcastle Island was a wise one, as the day being hot the scholars were enabled to enjoy themselves under the shade of the trees. Messrs. Foreman & Campbell's steam launch brought the party back at night.

A young newspaper man who has been drinking heavily for the past few days came near reaching a climax this morning by an attempt at suicide. The man left a note with a colleague, telling him to call at 3 p.m., when he would get a big sensational item. He was prevented from taking a large dose of morphine, which he had bought expressly for the purpose, by a friend who took him home and set a watch over him.

A BIG ROBBERY.

Over Three Thousand Dollars Removed From the Colonial Hotel Safe.

The safe in the Colonial Hotel, on Johnson street, contained $3200 at 11 o'clock on Saturday night and this morning that amount was missing. Mr. Tugwell, the proprietor, cannot remember whether he locked the safe or not, but as he generally leaves it unlocked he probably left it so on Saturday night. A man was in the room most of the time, so the thief must have watched an opportunity and removed the money.

Sergt. Walker has charge of the case, but as yet he has very little to help him find the culprit.

Killed in a Factory.

QUEBEC, June 13.—A young girl named Malenfant, employed in a factory at Trois Pistoles, got her clothing caught in a shaft some days ago, and before the machinery could be stopped she was whirled around and horribly mangled. Death was instantaneous.

NELSON.

The land department of the Columbia and Kootenay railway is about to build an office on the corner of Baker and Falls streets. The building will have about 40 feet frontage.

The Canadian Pacific railway is calling for tenders to remove from two of their lots and bury in the cemetery two bodies, one of which is old Bart Henderson, who died of fever some three years ago.

The completion of the Houston & Ink block, on the corner of Josephine and Baker streets, was celebrated by a ball on Tuesday night. There was a large attendance and dancing was kept up to a late hour.

It is rumored that Mr. Roepel, who is experting the Silver King, is acting in the interests of some the most influential shareholders in the Tharsis Copper company of Glasgow. The Tharsis is next to the Rio Tinto the largest producer of copper in the world. Mr. Roepel himself has little or nothing to say with regard to the Silver King, but it is generally understood that, should the property prove anything like so valuable as represented, the bond—which is already signed—will be taken up and the mine will be sold for a million and a half.

Mr. Alexander, who is negotiating in the interests of a foreign company for the purchase of the Whitewater, returned to Nelson on Thursday. The Whitewater has an average across the lead, which is a big one, of $24 to the ton of free milling gold. The present owners have been hampered in their efforts to develop the property by the defective qualities of the mill they have on the ground. It is unsuitable for the hard rock of the Whitewater and has in addition suffered in its wanderings about the country. With a 20-stamp mill in full blast the Whitewater should prove a bonanza to anyone operating it.

PILOT BAY.

Last night Dr. Hendryx received three carloads of machinery, being a first instalment of his smelter outfit. Work is being pushed forward on the townsite.

The Davies-Sayward Sawmill Company will be drowned out if the water rises another two feet.

KASLO.

Two more rich strikes are reported this week from the vicinity of Bear and Fish lakes. Some of the rock has been brought down here, and looks to be as rich as every find in this district has proved to be up to date. Assays are now being made.

The traffic up the trail is steadily increasing, and the packers have all the freight they can carry.

Building is going on briskly. Green Bros. have just completed a frame building on A avenue, block 7. Messrs. Brennan & Sucksmith's residences on Front street are now finished and occupied.

The church on B avenue is temporarily completed, and the first service was held by Rev. Mr. Martin on Sunday evening, the 22nd ultimo.

A good deal of real estate has changed hands in the last week at prices ranging from $225 to $800 per lot. Messrs. Coy and Mahoney were the principal buyers.

AINSWORTH.

During May 140 miners' licenses were issued at Ainsworth.

Born at Ainsworth, May 30th, to the wife of Mr. Charles Wheten, a boy.

Supplies can now be packed to the Skyline. Bremner and Watson sent up their first loads this week.

It is reported that another shute of high grade ore has been struck in the south drift on the 200 level at the Skyline. A chance for a bet: Which will be the first producing mine, "the Silver King or the Skyline?"

Walter B. M. Davidson, F.G.S., A.R.S.M., London, England, last week made a close examination of the mineral deposits of this camp. Mr. Davidson is more than satisfied with the result of development work done and is very sanguine of a bright future for the country.

Mr. Wallace, the superintendent of the Neosho mine, has returned from Seattle, and announces that as soon as the wagon road is completed, the mine machinery will be placed in position and work resumed. Mr. Wallace has laid out the road and has let a contract for construction. Dan. Clarke, the contractor, is at work with a force of men. He has 30 days in which to complete his work.

Alec McLeod was married on June 1st by the Rev. Mr. Rogers to Miss Temmie Harmon, of the Bluebell.

Sparks from the United's smoke stack set fire to the surrounding dry timber and, spreading burned out the bridge across the creek as well as some 300 feet of cribbing. The fire is still smouldering, but it is still hoped that the present wet weather will extinguish it, as some of the most valuable timber in the camp lies in its course.

KAMLOOPS.

Messrs. Wentworth, F. Wood, J. S. Lawrence and M. J. McIver, started Thursday afternoon for a trip to the silver and coal mines on the North Thompson. If high water in the rivers does not delay them, their return will be looked for early next week.

The Dog Creek correspondent of the Sentinel writes:—An occurrence that never happened before just came in the nick of time—an eight days rain. This is a great benefit not only to the farmer, but more to the ranges in general, as the prairie fodder was turning the weather side.

The grand jury at the assizes in their presentment reported the jail and hospital in good order, but recommended an increase in the number of cells in the former. They also recommended the building of a bridge across the Thompson River at Kamloops and the building of an assize court at Vernon.

At the assizes J. Wilson was found not guilty on the charge of stealing a horse. In the suit of Ellis vs. Knox, to recover $4000 for damages caused by a fire attributed to Knox, a verdict was given for the defendant.

REVELSTOKE.

At the Court House, Donald, on the 26th ult., Sheriff Redgrave sold the Corbin-Kennedy mining claim No. 2, situated at Illecillewaet, for $2,000. The property was sold under an execution at the suit of Nancy Field, and was bought by Mr. McCarthy, of Calgary. $20,000 has been spent on the property at various times.

John Stauber arrived up from the Lardeau country on Sunday. He has done very well there alone placer mining on the shores of Trout lake, having taken out over $7 a day for three weeks at a point twelve feet above high water mark. If gold is to be found in such quantities at this height, he believes there must be a lot of nuggets embedded lower down, and when the water recedes next fall he says he intends to explore the sand now under water.

J. H. Anderson, mining expert, from Fish Creek, was in town on Wednesday and left for Illecillewaet on Thursday morning. He says everything is now in readiness for the commencement of work on the Fish Creek claims. The snow is entirely gone and supplies have been packed in. Major Walker has some men employed on the Alberta. The Annie, which was bonded to Mr. Fishbourne, of Chicago, by D. Woolsey a few months ago, will be opened up at once. Walter Scott is doing development work on the Elizabeth. Mr. Anderson offered D. A. Lamey $10,000 for a half interest in the Herring Back, which was refused. The ore showing up on this claim is a grand sight, but no doubt most of the others will be quite as rich below, as they are all on the same ledge. Mr. Anderson bought three claims last week—the Lynx from C. Taylor, the Stockholm from Mr. Linney, and the Virginia. These will be worked by the syndicate which Mr. Anderson represents.

VERNON.

The Spokane and Great Northern Company, who are bringing a quartz mill into Boundary Creek, have secured the controlling interest in the following mines: (gold) Last Chance, None Such, Mountain Chief, Ready Bullion and Valley View; (silver) Number B, Stanton, Ellensburg and Ophir. The mill will be erected at a central point, rendering it of practical value to the mine owners of Copper, Deadwood, Greenwood, Wellington, Atwood and Smith's camps, the ores of which can be delivered on the creek for milling or concentration as their character may determine. When the company's gold quartz mines have been rendered productive, the development of their silver mines will be taken up. To carry on preliminary operations and erect necessary milling equipment, they have placed 500,000 non-assessable shares on the market.

Mr. F. H. Black, of Boundary Creek, Kettle River, came up on Tuesday, on land business. He speaks well of the various camps in the Boundary Creek mining district, and especially so of Fairview; he also says there is considerable good land vacant from 15 to 20 miles up Boundary Creek.

There is considerable talk among the settlers on the Smithson estate and adjacent portions of the Mission valley of forming a joint stock company of local fruit growers and putting up a jam factory in that locality, as it is generally understood that the Aberdeen cannery will be located at the terminus of the S. & O. All the fruit that will be produced this year will, however, find a ready market in the district itself, which at present imports from the coast during the whole year.

A 3-stamp mill is now in operation on Boundary creek.

Water is becoming low on the hydraulic claim at the mouth of Rock creek.

Six men are working on the Vernon brickyards. The first kiln (45,000 bricks) was opened on Tuesday.

Mr. H. McIntosh, of the Vernon Hotel, is offering a handsome silver cup as a prize to the couple who waltz the most gracefully at the ball to be held in town on Dominion Day.

Mrs. Greenhow has decided to have her new residence at Okanagan built by day work and according to the original plans. Mr. R. B. Bell will have superintendence of the entire work. When completed the building will be one of the finest (if not the finest) in the upper country. Several tenders for its construction were sent in, ranging from $9500 to $12,000.

The plans of the new government offices to be erected in Vernon arrived from Victoria by Tuesday's mail; and can be seen by intending tenderers at the government office. The building will be 50x50 feet, two storey, brick with stone foundations.

Mothers

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation, its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhœa and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mothers' friend. 35 doses, 35 cents.

Labor and Capital Struggle.

PITTSBURG, June 13.—One of the most bitter contests between labor and capital in recent years is expected to begin at the Homestead Steel Works of Carnegie, Phipps & Co. The 3000 workmen have until the 24th instant to decide whether or not they will accept a scale of wages which they claim will reduce their earning capacity from 10 to 40 per cent. They have not formally rejected the new scale, but no person expects them to accept it, and the active head of the Carnegie interest is a man who broke the last coke strike and disrupted the organization. He counts upon repeating the experience at Homestead.

Miss Mattie A. Cobb

Undoubtedly many diseases may be prevented if the blood is kept pure and the general health-tone sustained by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. When this is done, the germs of Railway Reconnaissance and Location Contracts taken. Estimates Prepared. Prospecting Outfits Organized, Mines Reported on and Assays Furnished.

In connection with our Engineering and Surveying Department, we are opening up an office at Nelson, in the now famous Kootenay District, for the purpose of handling Real Estate and Mining in all its branches. Our partner Mr. M. S. Davys having resided in the Kootenay country for the past five years, and successfully developed valuable mining properties there, is thus able to furnish reliable information as to location and values of properties. We have secured the services of Mr. R. H. Cavill, formerly of Swansea, where he was for five years connected with the Swansea Smelter. Mr. Cavill's practical experience as manager for the past 17 years, in some of the foremost mines and mills in California, Arizona, and Mexico Central America, together with his Swansea experience, gives him a thorough knowledge of the treatment and best methods of working refractory ores.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Some of the Business Done at the Meeting at Montreal.

MONTREAL, June 11.—The Presbyterian general assembly rejected a motion to decrease the salaries of those ministers receiving assistance from the augmentation fund, from $900 to $850 per year. The proposal to form a new synod in British Columbia and to form three presbyteries out of the present presbytery, was left to a committee. The report of the committee on the aged and infirm ministers' fund showed that the eastern fund now amounts to $3569, there being 18 annuitants. The western fund amounted to $86,621, and during the year 76 annuitants received in all $13,864. Of 762 ministers in the western section, only 362 contributed to the fund. Rev. W. Burns was appointed secretary of the committee, and the report was laid over for consideration. The report of the foreign missions committee described the work done in Palestine, Caina, India, Formosa and other places. It announced that Rev. Mr. Gould, a graduate of Knox College, had been made assistant to Dr. McKay, in Formosa. Rev. W. A. Wilson, of the Central Indian Mission, and Rev. J. McDougal, of the China Mission, delivered stirring addresses in which they descriged the opium traffic as the greatest obstacle to mission work. The assembly passed strong resolutions condemning the opium traffic, and instructing the foreign mission committee to take action towards assisting its everthrow.

CANADIAN NOTES.

News by Mail and Wire from all Parts of the Dominion.

Ed. Huddleston, aged 22, was drowned at Barrel's dam, Belleville, Ont., on Saturday.

H. A. Calvin (Independent Conservative) has been returned for Frontenac by acclamation.

J. Taylor, aged 65, ex-town clerk of Parrsborough, N.S., has been found guilty of embezzling the town funds, and sentenced to imprisonment for one day.

The degree of LL.D. has been conferred on Sir James Baden-Powell, M. P., Alexander Staveley-Hill, Q.C., and John L. Landeur by Toronto University.

At Calgary, on Saturday, a son of Jas. Fletcher was probably fatally hurt by Jas. Fraser. The head of a hammer which Fraser was throwing left the handle and hit the boy on the head.

The proposal to hold a big celebration in Toronto on Confederation Day has fallen through, owing to the Council being prevented by law from appropriating more than $2000 for such purposes.

In the Quebec House of Assembly a non-confidence motion upon the new crown lands legislation was defeated on a vote of 38 to 11. The Opposition proposed that cedar should be excluded from the list of merchantable timber.

In jumping from a window in the dusk August Drager, a farmer of Logan township, alighted on a crowbar which was sticking in the ground. The bar penetrated several inches into his abdomen. There is little hope of his recovery.

Though too much rain has fallen in some parts of Ontario, and the fields in some of the low-lying sections have been covered with water, as a general thing the fields of grain are in splendid condition, and spring wheat is coming on well.

Sir Oliver Mowat has consented to take part in the Dominion Day celebration at Toronto, and in the centennial celebration at Niagara on July 16th. Mr. Meredith will be absent from the latter on account of having to visit England, but has written, cordially approving of the celebration.

QUESTIONS FOR FARMERS.

A Catechism Issued by the Toronto Single Tax Association.

1. Ought a man to be taxed for improving his farm and giving employment to labor?

2. Is it better to tax men for building houses and barns and clearing their land, or to tax speculators for growing thistles or mullen stalks?

3. Does not idle land mean idle men?

4. Why should settlers be forced to seek homes in the backwoods, while there are thousands of acres unused, or only half used, near the centres of civization?

5. Do not the many unused acres increase the cost of roads, hauling to market, and keeping the land free from weeds?

6. Why not seek out taxes where the speculator gathers his riches—namely, from land values.

7. If we had confined taxation to land values and thus discouraged the holding of more land than was required for use, would we have to do as much statute labor yearly?

8. Would farmers be compelled to pay such high prices, or to give such large mortgages to procure farms if taxation was confined to land values?

9. When a man gets a million dollars by land speculation, who has got to pay it? Did not some people who honestly earned that money have to lose it?

10. Public improvements add nothing to the value of houses, goods, or incomes. Then why should these things be taxed to pay for public improvements?

11. Public improvements raise the values of land. Then should not the values of land pay for public improvements?

12. Would industry and commerce have to pay tribute to land speculators if taxes were confined to land values?

13. Would coal companies or salt companies be able to hold valuable coal lands or salt lands without using them, and keep men from employment, if taxes were removed from improvements and imposed on land values?

14. Do you know that if you tax houses and goods you make them dearer and harder to get?

15. Do you know that if you tax land values you discourage speculators holding it from industry and you make land cheaper and easier to get?

16. If we tax whiskey to make it harder to get, because it is an injury, what is the sense of taxing houses and goods, and thus making them harder to get—when they are a blessing?

17. Why should the man who uses land beneficially be taxed more than the man who holds it idle?

18. Is there not a value in the land of a country caused by the whole population, and should not that value, therefore, belong to the whole population?

19. Increased population requires increased taxation. Increased population causes increased land values. Is not the increased land value in every way suited to satisfy the increase demand for taxes.

LOOKING TO THE POPE.

Interest Felt in the Proposed Exhibit From the Vatican.

Millions of Catholics in different parts of the world are waiting to learn what Pope Leo XIII intends to exhibit at the World's Fair from the treasures of the Vatican. Exposition officials are likewise deeply interested, and Director-General Davis said he would afford every facility in the way of space for the anticipated display.

No one knows just yet what the exhibit will be, but it is expected to be a splendid one. It is the only instance in the history of World's Fairs in which such action has been taken by the head of the Roman Church. Some idea of what the Pope intends to do is indicated in what he said to Commissioner Thomas B. Bryan, when the latter was granted the unusual privilege of an audience with him.

"I shall make a display worthy of the Vatican and of Columbus, the child of the church," exclaimed the Holy Father with enthusiasm, when he was informed of the surpassing grandeur of the Fair.

"He had no idea of what was being done," said Mr. Bryan yesterday. He spoke of the exposition at Madrid this fall, but when I told him that we expected that $50,000,000 would in one way or another be expended on the fair he was astonished, and equally so at my assurance that our buildings would surpass those of the recent Paris Exposition. Then he grew interested, and even cordial. He said that the Vatican would be worthily represented. Then he wrote the letter concerning the Exposition which has been read in Catholic churches throughout the world. He went further and incorporated mention of the Fair in an encyclical letter, which has also been read in every church.

"I can think of nothing which will cause so much universal interest as the exhibit of the sacred treasures of the Vatican. They will bring devout Catholics from everywhere. And the priceless pictures and statuary which have been in that sacred pile for hundreds of years cannot fail to interest all."

THERE SHOULD BE NO TROUBLE WITH THE BABY.

It Becomes a Joy, If Fed Properly.

There should be no difficulties, no fears, no heart sorrows about your baby's condition, dear mother, if you are willing to be guided by wisdom and experience. Your baby is sickly and delicate, simply because you are not feeding it properly. It is not the amount of food you administer, or the number of times it is fed per day; it is the quality and peculiar preparation of the diet that must be considered.

Thousands of our best physicians declare that, in order to nourish an infant properly when it is deprived of good healthy breast milk, or only partially sustained by it, a food must be used which combines all the properties of the mother's milk.

The only food which truly combines all the nutritive ingredients of nature's food, is Lactated Food, now so universally used throughout Canada. It is predigested; it does not produce irritation as other foods usually do; it subdues inflammation of the stomach and intestines, and is always retained on the weakest stomach. Lactated Food possesses more strength-giving qualities than any other prepared food, or cow's milk, and is cheaper to use.

There is absolutely no trouble, mother, when your baby is fed on Lactated Food; it becomes happy, contented and bright; it will sleep well, and will escape all the common and dangerous summer maladies.

KASLO CITY
KOOTENAY LAKE.

SINCE the opening of navigation many hundreds of people have poured into Kaslo City. The discoveries of last fall have proved as rich as expected, and many new ones, fully as important, have been located this spring. The Kaslo-Kootenay Land Company have built roads and trails into the important mines, and surveys have been completed for the railway. The contract for clearing the right-of-way for the latter will be let in a few days. Many substantial buildings have been erected so far this year, and a large number will be begun immediately, including a handsome hotel.

A large number of business and residential lots have been sold and many have changed hands at a good profit. In a short time the Company will advance the price of all lots.

Now is the Time to Invest.

THE MINING LAW.

The Ainsworth News complains vigorously of the confusion caused by changes in the mining laws of the province, and sighs for a state of affairs like that which obtains in Mexico in regard to mining regulations. Of the latter some observer has given the following description, which is quoted by the News:—"The existing regulations evolved from those of Spain have been remarkable in this age of enigmatical mining laws for their simplicity and clarity and for the well nigh impossibility of a controversy on purely technical grounds." In the opinion of our Ainsworth contemporary, the British Columbia law has been loaded up with amendments so as to multiply opportunities for such controversies. The News proceeds: "For instance, the new mining law came into force, we understood, on the 24th of April. There was no beating of drums or blowing of trumpets. Quietly and insidiously it worked its way into the mining community, and, like all pests, its presence was hardly noted before its deadly work had begun. How is it that all claims staked under the old act after April 23 are illegally held and yet except that through the columns of the News nothing of the new provisions was known througnout the mining community? How is it that until the end of May the luckless prospector in Goat River district might locate under the new law only to find that he could record only under the old? This one fact, that a radical change in the law, applying to a widely scattered population, came into force without any intimation of its provisions to those most nearly concerned, is sufficient to cover our legislators with glory. They have amply vindicated British Columbia's superiority in civilization over a country such as Mexico, whose mining law can only boast of simplicity and clarity." As it is the business of the Government to administer the laws, the blame for neglecting to promulgate the new mining regulations lies with it, and not with the legislators. It is understood that Col. Baker's portfolio is to include the Ministry of Mines, so it would appear that he has an excellent opportunity for distinguishing himself by reforming this part of the administration. Such an abuse as the News complains of is a grave one, and is far from reflecting credit on the Government.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Colonist says Attorney-General Davie will leave for England in a few days on public business. "Public business," like charity, covers a multitude of sins. The Colonist, however, does not at present enjoy the confidence of Mr. Davie, and its information about his movements may be a little off.

A Government follower says the Premier has gone to be knighted! Should Mr. Robson return "Sir John" Robson, then, indeed, will enemies like the Vancouver News-Advertiser be forced—by the magic power of the new name—to drop the old familiar title of "Honest" John. The public can stand a great deal but it will not tolerate familiarity with a knight. It would hardly do to say "Honest Sir John."

Sol White, a Conservative member of the Ontario Legislature, is evidently making converts to his belief in the idea of annexation to the United States. At a meeting held in Windsor on Friday night an open vote on a resolution in favor of union was supported by 150. On a secret ballot, 204 voted for annexation, eight for independence, and 48 to remain as at present. Were Sol White a Liberal the Conservative press would hold him up to popular scorn as a "frightful example" of the Liberal party's disloyalty. Sol, however, is an honest Tory.

It will be of interest to note the method adopted by the Government to meet Sir Richard Cartwright's new line of attack in the Caron case. There is no getting around the Globe's evidence of wrongdoing on Sir Adolphe's part, and however skilful Sir John Thompson may be in legal hair-splitting, he must know that his colleague is already convicted at the bar of public opinion. The same jury must of necessity hold that a man so found guilty is not a fit and proper person to occupy a seat in the Government or to have charge of the people's affairs in any way. One thing more the Minister of Justice may count on—that the same public opinion will be turned more and more against him if he persists in shielding the guilty man. It is rather hard to see why he should take this risk, for Caron does not seem a very influential member of the Cabinet. Probably he possesses too much dangerous knowledge to be dismissed from the Government.

CORRECTION.

TO THE EDITOR:—In reading the report of the council meeting on Friday evening, I noticed I am made to say that I favored giving the railroad company exemption from taxes. Now, sir, what I did say was that I was against the principle of exemption from taxes, but that we had to have sometimes what we did not like in order to attract capital to public works of that kind, and as it had to go before the ratepayers, I thought it was right that they should pass judgment.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

The Canoe Factory of Tebb & Yelland Burned on Saturday Night.

The factory of Tebb & Yelland, canoe and boat manufacturers, corner of Broughton and Langley streets, was gutted by fire on Saturday night at 10:25; loss $1700; value of stock, $3775; insurance $2000 in the Eastern of Ontario. The fire department were quickly on the scene but the fire had obtained a good hold on the building before water was turned on. A delay was experienced at the hydrant, corner of Broughton and Langley streets, but two other streams were brought to bear and soon quenched the fire. The large quantity of dry lumber stored upstairs proved great food for the flames, and it was with difficulty that they could be subdued. Two boats, newly finished, which were drying in the lower storey, were got out uninjured. A number of moulds, one the model of the latest style racing canoe and just finished, which were upstairs, were destroyed, as also the machinery, the firm's books and papers and a considerable quantity of valuable hardwood finishings. The owners were on the scene a short time after the fire was put out, but were refused admittance to the building by the firemen, and were therefore unable to tell exactly what has been saved or lost. The company insured the contents of the building last Thursday and received their policy on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Tebb said this morning that the disaster will throw the firm back three months; they were just getting nicely upon their feet. Last week they booked eleven orders for canoes and boats, also some steam launch work which was to have been commenced this morning. He was at a loss to know how the fire originated, as there was no fire in the building after noon on Saturday. A small fire was lighted in the morning for the purpose of steaming some gunwales, but it was put out hours before the factory was closed. From the description given him by persons who were early on the scene he strongly believes that the fire started on the outside of the building.

The firm began business here last March and have been working up a fine trade. They have built over 60 canoes and boats and had orders for many more on the books. If everything can be straightened out again they will start up once more and fill all orders. The loss upon the building is considerable. It was owned by Mr. C. Hayward. He had a quantity of sash, doors and other woodwork stored in the building. His loss, building and goods, will be about $600.

An examination of the premises this afternoon showed a pretty tough scene of destruction. A full kit of splendid new tools belonging to W. Yelland were reduced to old iron, and the moulds and patterns used by the firm are now charcoal. The insurance company place the salvage at a considerable amount, and it is not known exactly how much will be allowed the owners. Messrs. Tebb & Yelland say they are sorry to disappoint their many customers, but it will be impossible for them to execute any of their orders in the time specified.

The Gorge Road Church.

There were large attendances at the services in the Gorge road church yesterday, they being a continuation of the dedication services commenced last Sunday. Rev. E. Robson preached in the morning and addressed the Sunday school in the afternoon.

The New City Coroner.

The next city coroner will be, in all probability, Dr. Hasell. It is understood that he has accepted the Government's offer of the position, and that the announcement of the appointment will appear in the next issue of the British Columbia Gazette.

The Victoria and Sydney Railway.

The mayor and aldermen had a conference on Saturday afternoon with the promoters of the Victoria and Sydney Railway. The council and the Government will have a conference, to decide upon terms of security, before the by-law is placed before the people.

A Useful Map.

M. W. Waitt & Co. have issued a map of Vancouver Island from Nootka Sound to San Juan Straits, compiled from the latest surveys on record in the Lands and Works Department. It shows the districts, the boundaries of the E. & N. R. grant, the farm sections, rivers, creeks and lakes.

"Shackles" Run In.

"Shackles," the pet of the fire department boys, was "run in" on Saturday by the poundkeeper for loafing around the streets. He was bailed out and is now the possessor of a city tag. The bail will probably be estreated as "Shackles" has too much regard for his reputation to attend the regular Saturday auction held by Poundkeeper Shaw.

The Contract Signed.

The contract for the B. C. Board of Trade building was signed this afternoon by Dimsdale and Burnes, the contractors, and President T. B. Hall, of the Board of Trade. The contractors, although not very well known, have been doing work in Victoria for about eight years. They have just completed Mr. Dunsmuir's house on the Gorge. Ground will be broken immediately for the new building.

Church of England Chinese Mission School.

The above school is again re-opened, at the corner of Cormorant and Government streets, under the superintendence of Rev. E. F. Lipscomb. The room is a great improvement on the one in Herald street, and the committee are to be congratulated on having found so suitable a position. The mission has the advantage of a band of ladies who give their services gratuitously and the number of pupils is increasing weekly.

A charge against Chas. Tapoorten, of selling liquor on Sunday the 4th inst., was dismissed, it being shown that the defendant was not the holder of the license for the Gordon Head saloon, and the evidence of liquor being sold in the place was not established.

Object to a Reduction.

At an informal meeting of the congregation of St. Luke's church, Mount Tolmie, the delegate to the synod was instructed to oppose any proposition to reduce the missionary allowance to suburban churches. The members of the congregation are of opinion that the church is as yet unable to support itself. A meeting of the executive of the synod is to be held this evening to make arrangements for the annual meeting of the synod, which commences to-morrow afternoon.

B. C. Exhibit Association.

A meeting of the B. C. Exhibit Association will be held at 8 p.m. next Thursday evening in the Council chamber, Victoria, at which all parties interested are invited to be present. Last year Victoria did not respond very generously to the invitation of the officers of the association, and consevuently the city was not represented at the Toronto exhibition to the extent that she should have been. The object of the meeting is to enlist the co-operation of our citizens.

Victoria Through the Camera.

Several photographs of the city were taken to-day by an American photographer, for a work upon the Pacific coast to be issued at an early date. One of Government street, looking south, the snow-crowned Olympians appearing in the background among the telephone, telegraph, electric light and tramway wires was particularly fine; also one from Church hill looking westward. Another from the summit of Mount Tolmie will do the city credit. The day was perfect for the photographer's purpose.

All Aboard for Beacon Hill.

The extension of the tramway company's system to Beacon Hill Park will be in operation in about twelve days. The track is finished; all that remains to complete the line is a consignment of small wire, now on the way from the East. It will hereafter be possible for the company to land its patrons at the gate of the park, and within a stone's throw of the entrance to Caledonia grounds. Those who have panted along the dusty streets, going to the park on a broiling July day, or even the 24th this year, will know what a convenience the cars will be.

Opening Social.

The opening tea meeting of the Centennial Methodist church promises to be a grand success. Tea will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock. The ladies assure the public that all delicacies and good things will be in abundance. The chair will be taken at 8 o'clock by His Worship Mayor Beaven, and a good programme will be presented.

Another Addition.

Davidson Bros., of the Five Sisters' block, Government street, have secured the services of Mr. E. F. Robinson, an expert manufacturing jeweler, to take charge of the manufacturing department of their business. As Mr. Robinson is from a large West End, London, Eng., house, there is no doubt of his thorough ability as a manufacturing jeweler. *

Leap Year Picnic.

A party of about forty young people had a very pleasant time at the Victoria Gardens on Saturday afternoon and evening. The occasion was a leap year picnic got up by the ladies forming Miss Englis' sewing class, who invited their gentlemen friends, and managed the affair very successfully. The party went up in large skiffs in tow of the steam launch Gorge. The usual picnic festivities were indulged in, and a return was made by moonlight.

Crushed by a Pole.

Samuel Buttoner, a workman employed on the Dimmock & Mason contract for the tramway extension to the park, had his right ankle fractured and back seriously injured this morning by one of the poles, which was being raised, falling on him. He was helping to elevate the timber when it rolled off the spikes and not being able to get out of the way quickly enough, he was pinned to the ground. The unfortunate man was conveyed to Jubilee Hospital where his injuries have been attended to.

A Day's Outing.

The glorious weather yesterday afternoon and evening brought out hundreds of promenaders and many boating parties. Scores of boats visited the San Pedro and the Arm, the latter resembling a highway all the afternoon with craft of various kinds passing up and down. The water toboggan was well patronized, McIntosh's special line of packet steamers drawing big crowds up there and back. Along the Arm could also be noted the small boy in abbreviated tights, enjoying the briny tepid wave to the fullest extent. It was the first really favorable Sunday for outings that there has been this season, and was taken advantage of by all who could.

A Delightful Place.

The charming estate, consisting of residence and grounds of Dr. John Hall, and situate near the Jubilee Hospital, is to be sold at auction to-morrow at noon. This is a most compact and attractive piece of property. The land in this district is now exceedingly valuable even without improvements, but on this little estate Dr. Hall has spent several years of thought and care in order to make it attractive by the planting of trees, bushes, etc., and has spent a great deal of money in putting the whole of it under cultivation. The sale will take place at the salerooms of Messrs. Richards & Cuthbert, Broad street and Trounce avenue.

Victoria Trades and Labor Council.

The regular meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council was called to order at 8 p.m. on Saturday night, President Chipchase in the chair. There was a full attendance of delegates. A communication was received from Secretary of Dominion Labor Congress, stating that anti-Chinese petitions are coming into the House of Commons from all parts of the Dominion, and another from Nanaimo stating that they have over 1000 signatures on their anti-Chinese petition and are still getting more names. A communication from New Westminster Trades and Labor Council was read, stating that that city is overcrowded with idle men, skilled and unskilled. A committee was appointed by the New Westminster body to investigate the cause of the over-crowding of the labor market, and the committee find the sole cause of the over supply lies in the fact that land speculators are allowed to get hold of all available agricultural land, who close up the great avenue of escape for the over supply of labor. Copies of the finding of the committee have been sent to all the principal cities of the eastern provinces of the Dominion.

A copy of the Victoria News, dated May 13, was produced by one of the delegates present, and the attention of the council was called to an editorial contained in said paper, regarding wages and emigration. It was discussed at considerable length, and the delegates instructed what action to take.

Other matters occupied the attention of the council up to a late hour, when it adjourned to meet in regular session on Friday, June 24.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

Insect Life.

During the summer months insects of all kinds become very troublesome. To provide against this Cochrane & Munn, prescription druggists, have for sale the celebrated "Tangle foot" fly paper and strictly pure uncolored Dalmatian Insect Powder.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

A. S. Potts Says He is Confident He Will be Honorably Acquitted.

The case of A. S. Potts, a Colonist reporter, charged with indecent assault as an outcome of the exposure made in the Colonist a week ago, was concluded at the police court Saturday night, Magistrate McCrae committing the defendant for trial at the next competent court of jurisdiction. Potts was immediately released on bail which was placed at $1000, his bondsmen being Messrs. Ellis and Sargison.

The defendant put in a statement in writing, explaining his action in securing the information on which he wrote the article on moral depravity, and denying the statements of the girl Gracie Walker against him. The information he received at the interview with the girl he gave to the police a few hours later. The statement was received by the court, but no evidence for the defence was admitted.

Potts states that the girl has contradicted herself in many essential points, and is quite confident that he will be honorably acquitted.

The trial will not take place till the return of the party who was present at the time the alleged assault took place.

ANOTHER CONVICTION QUASHED

Mr. Justice Crease Sets Aside the Conviction of Jas. Cowie.

The appeal of Jas. Cowie against a conviction in the city police court came up before Mr. Justice Crease this morning and was quashed. Cowie, it will be remembered, was sentenced to two months at hard labor for assaulting Police Officer Smith. The case having been discussed by Mr. Prior for Smith and Mr. Irving for Cowie, Mr. Justice Crease gave judgment.

He said that he had no doubt that the conviction was not a good one, the plea of guilty entered by Cowie at the police court not ending the case. Smith, he was sure, had good intentions, but he went the wrong way to carry them out. He should have gone into the saloon and told Cowie that his horse was untied. He showed a want of moral courage in taking a drink with Cowie, thereby promoting an evil that he was showing a desire to cure. He was not in the execution of his duty and had no right to touch Cowie's horse when he said that he was blanketed and had been cared for. The consequence was one to an error in Smith's judgment. The magistrate had, no doubt, thought of the old story, "confess and be hanged." He was a strong advocate for protection to the police, but the sentence was quashed.

BORNE TO THE GRAVE.

Funerals of the Late Mrs. Teague and John Armstrong Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Teague, which took place yesterday afternoon, was largely attended and the many friends who were unable to attend showed their esteem for the deceased by sending a large number of floral offerings. The funeral services at the First Presbyterian church and at the grave were conducted by the Rev. W. B. Winchester. The pallbearers were: J. Wriglesworth, P. R. Brown, T. R. Mitchell, Alex. Wilson, John Dean, B. Williams, W. J. Quinlan and H. Mansell.

The remains of the late John Armstorng were laid at rest in Ross Bay cemetery this morning. Rev. Father Nicolai celebrated mass at the St. Andrew's R. C. Cathedral and Rev. Father Van Gothem read the burial service at the grave. The pallbearers were: Angus McLeod, W. Clark, J. O. Conror, J. Dwyer, D. Cameron and P. Carr.

The remains of the late Mrs. Bagnall were brought down from Vancouver last evening and this afternoon laid at rest alongside those of her husband. The funeral was largely attended. At St. John's church services were conducted by Rev. P. Jenns who also read the burial services at the grave. The pallbearers were: Chas. Kent, E. M. Johnson, R. Munro, Wm. Wilson, G. Jay, sr., and E. White.

Who Wants a Hotel.

J. P. Davies & Co. have two sales on hand that ought to attract the attention of persons on the look out for something to turn up in the hotel line. The Trentham Hotel (formerly the Halfway House) on the Esquimalt road, and the Colonist Hotel, facing on Beacon Hill Park, will be offered by auction on Wednesday next, at the firm's rooms, Wharf street. If the right parties become the purchasers, and run the hotels on the proper lines, there is a fortune to be made in the next five years at either place.

The Warships.

H.M.S. Champion dropped anchor in Esquimalt harbor at half-past one this morning, she having returned from Comox where she went for coal. She will leave early to-morrow morning for Honolulu and is not expected back for twelve months.

H.M.S. Warspite will go out for target practice on the 23rd. She will spend a few days in the straits and then go to Vancouver to take part in the Dominion day celebration.

The U. S. Baltimore and Charleston are on the Sound.

The Hospital Fund.

The following additional names of those willing to give their refund taxes to the Jubilee Hospital were to-day received and placed on the list which is now a long one: John Thompson, Mrs. E. Smith, R. Maynard, John Turner, S. W. Bucknam, R. Drake, J. H. Todd, J. Weiler, F. G. Richards, jr., L. Pither, G. Whitley, C. J. King, E. B. McKay, Miss E. McCandless, M. McCahill, and E. C. Johnson.

The Old Familiar Fiend.

The man who asks, "well, is this hot enough for you?" has arrived in town. He was encountered on Government street this afternoon. One of his victims replied, "yes, it is, but not hot enough for you, I guess." Why how's that?" asked the fiend. He was in reply invited to visit a climate which is always tropical and where, the victim said, there was an extra warm spot reserved for him.

Social and Sale of Work.

The ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will hold a sale of work and afterwards a social in the lecture room of the Church on Wednesday afternoon and evening. An interesting musical and literary programme will be given at the social, all the best singers in the congregation being booked for selections, vocal and instrumental.

THE SEA SHOOTING CASE.

James Rollins and Robert Dudgeon Examined at the Provincial Court.

Robert Dudgeon and James Rollins were up before Magistrate Pearson at the Provincial Police Court this afternoon to answer to the charge of shooting at and maliciously injuring Miss Alice Sea, daughter of Samuel Sea, of the Burnside road. Mr. Eberts appeared for the defence, and Mr. Smith, Deputy Attorney-General, for the prosecution.

Alice Sea, who was the principal witness, said that on Tuesday when she was at home with her mother she heard some shots fired near the house, and went out. She saw one young man near an alder swamp, about 200 yards from the house, fire a shot. She called to him to mind where he was firing. He was about 100 yards away at the time, and another young man was about 15 yards from her. The one farthest away called out something when the other one moved, and the other one fired again, a grain of shot striking the witness in the face. She ran to the house to tell her mother when another shot was fired, some of the shot striking her on the back.

Mrs. Sea testified that she went back of the barn when told by her daughter of the shooting but saw no one there. She crossed the Burnside road and saw the prisoners near Mr. McCarter's. She accused them of shooting her daughter and asked their names. They admitted shooting back of the barn, but laughed and said they did not know anything about shooting the girl. They pooh poohed her and said they would fire at her.

An adjournment was made at 4:15 to secure the evidence of a gun expert.

Death's Hand.

Mr. Joseph Wilson of Pembroke street, was to-day called upon to mourn the loss of his wife, Sarah F. Wilson. She was a native of Leeds, England, and aged 77 years. She came to Victoria in 1863 and has resided here ever since. A son, Chas. Wilson of the Vancouver foundry is left to mourn the loss of a kind mother.

Moved Out.

The Turner Lodging House, which obtained some notoriety through the moral depravity scandal, has been closed to business. Mr. Collins, the proprietor, yesteday took what goods belonged to him out of the building, leaving the furniture, which is the property of Weiler Brothers.

Fortnightly Bicycle Races.

The regular fortnightly handicap races of the Wanderers Bicycle Club takes place at Beacon Hill track to-morrow night. Some new wheelers are expected to participate, and there is no doubt there will be lively and interesting sport. The races begin at 7 o'clock.

The Bridges.

The Point Ellice bridge, which has been closed for some days on account of the collapse of the woodwork, is open for traffic again. The break has been repaired. The gully bridge on the Gorge road, which is unsafe, has been closed, and anyone crossing it does so at his own risk.

Young Victorians Homeward Bound.

Ernest C. Hayward and F. Nicholson, both students at the Leland Stanford Junior University, are passengers for home by the City of Puebla, which left San Francisco at 9 o'clock this morning. They will spend their summer vacation with their parents in this city.

A New Lodge.

The members of the Grand Lodge I. O.O.F., will go to Nanaimo to-morrow to institute a new lodge. Among those who will go up are Past Grand Masters J. E. Phillips, F. Carne and J. H. Meldram; Grand Secretary Davey, and Grand Treasurer Holmes.

CHAPTER III.

MOPO VENTURES HOME.

I threw myself down on the grass and panted till my strength came back; then I went and hid in a patch of reeds down by a swamp. All day long I lay there thinking. What was I to do? Now I was a jackal without a hole. If I went back to my people, certainly they would kill me, whom they thought a thief. My blood would be given for Noma's, and that I did not wish, though my heart was sad. Then there came into my mind the thought of Chaka, the boy to whom I had given the cup of water long ago.

I had heard of him; his name was known in the land. The words he had said and the vision that my mother had seen were beginning to come true. He had taken the place of his father, Senzangacona. Now I remembered how this Chaka promised that he would make me great, and I thought in myself that I would arise and go to him. Perhaps he would kill me; well, what did it matter? I should certainly be killed if I staid here. Yes, I would go. But now my heart pulled another way. There was but one thing that I loved in the world—it was my sister Baleka. My father had betrothed her to the chief of a neighboring tribe, but I knew that this marriage was against her wish. Perhaps my sister would run away with me if I could get near her to tell her that I was going. I would try—yes, I would try.

I waited till the darkness came down, then I went on till I came to the kraal. Some of my people were seated outside of a hut, talking together over a fire. I crept near silently as a snake and hid behind a little bush. I knew that they could not see me outside the ring of the firelight, and I wanted to hear what they said. As I thought, they were talking of me and called me many names. They said I should bring ill luck on the tribe by having killed so great a witch doctor as Noma, also that the people of the headman would demand payment for the assault on him. I learned, moreover, that my father had ordered all the men of the tribe out to hunt for me on the morrow, and to kill me wherever they found me. "Ah!" I thought, "you may hunt, but you will bring nothing home to the pot." Just then a dog that was lying by the fire got up and began to sniff the air. I could not see what dog it was—indeed I had forgotten all about the dogs when I drew near the kraal; that is what comes of want of experience, my father. The dog sniffed and sniffed, then he began to growl, looking always my way, and I grew afraid.

"What is the dog growling at?" said one man to another. "Go and see." But the other man was taking snuff and did not like to move. "Let the dog go and see for himself," he answered, sneezing; "what is the good of keeping a dog if you have to catch the thief?" "Go on, then," said the first man to the dog, and he ran forward, barking. Then I saw him; it was my own dog, Koos, a very good dog. Presently, as I lay not knowing what to do, he smelled my smell, stopped barking, and running around the bush he found me and began to lick my face. "Be quiet, Koos," I whispered to him, and he lay down by my side.

"Where has that dog gone now?" said the first man. "Is he bewitched, that he suddenly stops barking and does not come back?"

"We will see," said the other, rising, a spear in his hand.

Now I was once more terribly afraid, for I thought that they would catch me or I must run for my life again. But as I sprang up to run a big black snake glided between the men and went off toward the huts. They jumped aside in a great fright, then all turned to follow the snake, saying that this was what the dog was barking at.

When they had gone I crept off the other way, and Koos followed me. At first I thought that I would kill him, lest he should betray me; but when I called him to me to knock him on the head I could not do it. So I thought I would take my chance, and we went on together. This was my purpose: First to creep into my own hut and get my assegais and skin blanket, then to gain speech with Baleka. I came to the reed fence that surrounded the huts. Nobody was to be seen at the gate, which was not shut with thorns as usual. That was my duty, and I had not been there to do it. So, bidding the dog lie down outside, I stepped through boldly, came to the door of my hut and listened. It was empty; there was not even a breath to be heard. So I crept in and began to search for my assegais, my water gourd and my wood pillow.

Now the kraal of the chief, my father, Makedama, was two hundred paces away, and there I must go, for there Baleka slept. Also I dared not enter by the gate, because a man was always on guard there. So I cut my way through the reed fence with my assegai and crept to the hut where Baleka was with some of her half sisters. I knew on what side of the hut it was her custom to lie and where her head would be. So I lay down on my side and gently, very gently, began to bore a hole in the grass covering of the hut. Almost I gave it over, thinking that I would fly alone, when suddenly I heard a girl wake and begin to cry on the other side of the thatch. "Ah," I thought, "that is Baleka, who weeps for her brother!" So I put my lips where the thatch was thinnest and whispered:

"Baleka, my sister! Baleka, do not weep! I, Mopo, am here. Say not a word, but rise. Come out of the hut, bringing your skin blanket."

Baleka understood, and after awhile crept from the hut.

"Why are you here?" she whispered as we met. "Surely you will be killed!"

"Hush!" I said. "Will you come with me, or will you creep back into the hut and bid me farewell?"

She thought awhile, then she said, "No, my brother, I will come, though I believe that this will be the end of it—that you will lead me to my death."

So we slipped away together, followed by the dog Koos, and soon were running toward the country of the Zulu tribe.

CHAPTER IV.

THE FLIGHT OF MOPO AND BALEKA.

Shouted out loud and charged me.

All the rest of that night we journeyed, till even the dog was tired. Then we hid in a mealie field for a day, as we were afraid of being seen. Toward the afternoon we heard voices, and looking through the stems of the mealies we saw a party of my father's men pass searching for us. They went on to a neighboring kraal to ask if we had been seen, and after that we saw them no more for awhile. At night we traveled again, but, as fate would have it, we were met by an old woman, who looked oddly at us but said nothing. After that we pushed on day and night, for we knew that the old woman would tell the pursuers if she met them; and so indeed it turned out.

But now I was doubtful whether we would go to Chaka, for after what we had seen I grew afraid lest he should kill us. Still we had nowhere to turn, so I said that we would walk along till something happened. Now we grew faint with hunger and weariness, and Baleka said that we had better sit down and die, for then there would be no more trouble. So we sat down by a spring. But I did not wish to die yet, though Baleka was right, and it would have been well to do so. As we sat, the dog Koos went to a bush that was near, and presently I heard him spring at something and the sound of struggling. I ran to the bush; he had caught hold of a duiker buck, as big as himself, that was asleep in it. Then I drove my spear into the buck and shouted for joy, for here was food.

When the buck was dead I skinned him, and we took bits of the flesh, washed them in the water and ate them, for we had no fire to cook them with. It is not nice to eat uncooked flesh, but we were so hungry that we did not mind, and strength came back to us from the food. When we had eaten what we could we rose and washed ourselves at the spring; but as we washed Baleka looked up and gave a cry of fear. For there, on the crest of the hill, about ten spear throws away, were a party of six armed men, and these men people of my own tribe—children of my father Makedama—who still pursued us to take us or slay us. They saw us; they raised a shout and began to run. We too sprang up and ran.

Before us the ground was open and sloped down to the banks of the White Umfolozi. We ran for the river. After us came the warriors. Now we neared the banks of the river; it was full and wide. Above us the waters ran angrily, breaking into swirls of white where they passed over sunken rocks; below was a rapid, in which none might live; between the two a deep pool, where the water was quiet but the stream strong.

"Ah! my brother, what shall we do?" gasped Baleka.

"There is this to choose," I answered, "perish on the spears of our people or try the river."

"Easier to die by water than on iron," she answered.

"Good!" I said. "Now may our snakes look toward us and the spirits of our fathers be with us! At the least we can swim." And I led her to the head of the pool. We threw away everything except an assegai—which I held in my teeth—and plunged in, wading and swimming, the dog Koos leading the way.

Then it was that the soldiers appeared upon the bank. "Ah! little people," one cried, "you swim, do you? Well, you will drown; and if you do not drown we know a ford, and we will catch you and kill you." And he hurled an assegai after us, which fell between us.

Now we swam hard, for we could swim well. It was just this: If we could reach the bank before we got into the rapids we were safe; if not, then—good night! We strained, we struggled. Baleka was a brave girl, and she swam bravely; but the water pushed her down below me, and I could do nothing to help her. I got my foot upon the rock and looked around. There she was, and eight paces from her the broken water boiled. I could not go back. But the dog Koos saw. He swam to her barking, then turned around heading for the shore. She grasped him by the tail with her right hand. She too struck out with her feet and her left hand, and slowly, very slowly, drew near. Then I stretched out the handle of my assegai toward her. She caught it with her left hand. I pulled and Koos pulled, and we brought her to the bank, and there she fell gasping.

Now when the soldiers on the other bank saw that we had crossed, they shouted threats at us, then ran away down the bank.

"Arise, Baleka," I said; "they have gone to seek a ford."

"Ah, let me die!" she answered.

But I forced her to rise, and we walked on till at last far away, we saw a large kraal.

"Keep heart," I said. "See, there is the kraal of Chaka."

Presently we came to a path that ran to the kraal from the ford of the Umfolozi. We followed the path till at last we were but half an hour's journey from the kraal. Then we looked back, and lo! there behind us were the pursuers.

Again we ran, but they gained upon us. Then once more I thought of the dog. I called him and told him what to do. He understood, and flew toward them growling. They tried to kill him with spears and kerries, but he jumped around them, biting at them and kept them back. At last a man hit him, and he sprang up and seized the man by the throat. There he clung, man and dog rolling over and over together, till the end of it was that they both died together.

Meanwhile we were but three hundred paces from the gate of the kraal.

"Run on, Baleka, run on!" I said, dropping behind. Now she staggered on toward the kraal. I sat down to get my breath again, for I was about to fight four men.

The men were running, two and two, with the length of a spear throw between them. But of the first pair one was five or six paces in front of the other. This man shouted out loud and charged me, shield and spear up. I stood waiting for him till he drew back the spear to stab me. Then suddenly I dropped to my knees and thrust upward with all my strength beneath the rim of his shield; and he also thrust, but over me, his spear only cutting the skin of my shoulder. And my assegai? Ah! it ran through and through his middle. He rolled over and over on the plain. I was now weaponless, for the haft of my spear—it was but a light throwing assegai—broke in two, leaving nothing but a little bit of stick in my hand. And the other one was on me! He looked tall as a tree above me.

I fell onto my hands and knees and flung myself over sideways. My body struck the legs of the man about to stab me, lifting his feet from beneath him. Down he came heavily. Before he had touched the ground I was off it. His spear had fallen from his hand. I stooped, seized it, and as he rose I stabbed him through the back. In the shake of a leaf he also was dead. Then I ran, for my valor was gone. About a hundred paces from me Baleka was staggering along. By the time I caught her she was some forty paces from the gate of the kraal. But then her powers left her altogether. Yes! there she fell senseless, and I stood by her. And there, too, I should have been slain had not this chanced, for the other two men, having staid one instant by their dead fellows, came on against me mad with wrath. For at that moment the gate of the kraal opened, and through it came a party of soldiers dragging a man by the arms. After them walked a great man, who wore a leopard skin on his shoulders and was laughing, and with him were five or six ringed councilors, and after them again came a company of warriors.

The soldiers saw that killing was going on and ran up just as the slayers reached us.

"Who are you?" they cried, "who dare to kill at the gate of the Elephant's kraal? Here the Elephant kills alone!"

"We are of the children of Makedama," they answered, "and we follow these evil doers who have done wickedness and murder in our kraal. See, but now two of us are dead at their hands, and others lie dead along the road. Suffer that we slay them!"

"Ask that of the Elephant," said the soldiers; "ask, too, that he suffer you should not be slain."

Just then the tall chief saw blood and heard words. He stalked up; and a great man he was to see, though still young in years. For he was taller by a head than any around him, and his chest was big as the chests of two; his face was fierce and beautiful, and when he was angry his eye flashed like a smitten brand.

"Who are these who dare to stir up dust at the gates of my kraal?" he asked, frowning.

"O Chaka, O Elephant!" answered the captain of the soldiers, throwing himself to the earth before him, "the men say that these are evil doers and that they pursue them to kill them."

"Good!" he answered. "Let them slay the evil doers."

"O great chief! thanks be to thee, great chief!" said those who sought to slay us.

"I hear you," he answered, then spoke once more to the captain. "And when they have slain the evil doers, let them themselves be blinded and turned loose to seek their way home, because they have dared to lift a spear within the Zulu gates. Now praise on, my children!" and he laughed, while the soldiers murmured, "Ou! he is wise, he is great, his justice is bright and terrible like the sun!"

But the two men cried out in fear, for this they did not seek.

"Cut out their tongues also," said Chaka. "What! shall the land of the Zulus suffer such a noise? Never! lest the cattle miscarry. To it, ye black ones! There lies the girl. She is asleep and helpless. Slay her! What! you hesitate! Nay, then, if you will have time for thought, I will give it. Take these men, smear them with honey and pin them over ant heaps; by tomorrow's sun they will know their own minds. But first kill these two hunted jackals," and he pointed to Baleka and myself. "They seem tired, and doubtless they long for sleep."

Then for the first time I spoke, for the soldiers drew near to slay us.

"Oh, Chaka," I cried, "I am Mopo, and this is my sister, Baleka!"

I stopped, and a great shout of laughter went up from all who stood around.

"Very well, Mopo, and thy sister, Baleka," said Chaka grimly. "Good morning to you, Mopo, and Baleka also, good night!"

"Oh, Chaka!" I broke in, "I am Mopo, son of Makedama, of the Langeni tribe. It was I who gave thee a gourd of water many years ago, when we both were little. Then thou badest me come to thee when thou hadst grown great, vowing that thou wouldst protect me and never do me harm. So I have come, bringing my sister with me, and now, I pray thee, do not eat up the words of long ago."

As I spoke Chaka's face changed, and he listened earnestly, as a man who holds his hand behind his ear. "Those are no lies," he said. "Welcome, Mopo! Thou shalt be a dog in my hut and feed from my hand. But of thy sister I said nothing. Why, then, should she not be slain when I swore vengeance against all thy tribe save thee alone?"

"Because she is too fair to slay, O chief!" I answered boldly; "also because I love her and ask her life as a boon!"

"Turn the girl over," said Chaka, and they did so, showing her face.

"Again thou speakest no lie, son of Makedama," said the chief. "I grant thee the boon. She also shall lie in my hut and be of the number of my 'sisters.' Now tell me thy tale, speaking only the truth."

These, then, my father, were the events that ended in the coming of me, Mopo, and of my sister Baleka to the kraal of Chaka, the Lion of the Zulu. Now you may ask why I have kept you so long with this tale, which is as are other tales of our people. But that shall be seen, for from these matters, as a tree from a seed, grew the birth of Umslopogaas Bulalio, Umslopogaas the Slaughterer and Nada the Beautiful, of whose love my story has to tell. For Nada was my daughter, and Umslopogaas, though few knew it, was none other than the son of Chaka, born of my sister Baleka.

Now when Baleka recovered from the weariness of our flight and her beauty came back to her, Chaka took her to wife, numbering her among his women, whom he named his "sisters." And me Chaka took to be one of his doctors, of his inyanga of medicine, and he was so well pleased with my medicine that in the end I became his head doctor. Now this was a great post, in which, during the course of years, I grew fat in cattle and in wives; but also it was one of much danger. For when I rose strong and well in the morning I could never know but that at night I should sleep stiff and red. Many were the doctors whom Chaka slew; doctored they never so well, they were slain at last. For a day would surely come when the king felt ill in his body or heavy in his mind, and then to the assegai or the torment with the wizard who had doctored him! Yet I escaped, because of the power of my medicine, and also because of that oath which Chaka had sworn to me as a child. So it came about that where the king went, there I went with him. I slept near his hut, I sat behind him at council, in the battle I was ever at his side.

Matters of Interest Going Forward in the Sporting World, Here and Elsewhere.

BASEBALL.

As was prophesied the game of ball between the James Bay and V. A. C. teams on Saturday afternoon proved one of the best contested ever witnessed on a diamond in this city. Leaving out the first innings, the boys played as good ball as the majority of professionals, and so evenly matched were the teams that twelve innings had to be played before the match was decided, victory again going to the James Bays. There seemed to be a very prevalent wish that the V.A.C.'s would win—just to give them encouragement,—but fate was against them. Everyone was pleased at the gallant fight they made, and it was only by some exceptionally fine work that the James Bays won, especially in the twelfth innings, when Gouge was on 3rd base and Hayes on 1st, and Scott sent a fly between 2nd base and right field. No one expected Widdowson to get it, but he did, just reaching it with one hand and sent it in to first in time to catch Hayes. Then again in the second half of the 12th innings Jackson made a base hit, and stole second. Franklin also made first, moving Jackson to third. Hannan flew to left field, where Brunell was doing exceptionally good work. Jackson waited till Brunell caught the sphere and then ran for the plate. It was a race between man and ball. Jackson had the start, however, and scored amid deafening cheers, and so ended the game. The following is the score:

LINERS.

Lenfesty struck out 13 men and Jackson 3.

Williams as shortstop for the Bays played a great game, making nine arrests.

J. Hanlin as umpire gave general satisfaction.

The Maple Leaf club defeated the Oakdales on Saturday with a score of 14 to 13 and an inning.

CRICKET.

The United Banks and a team from C Battery played at Macaulay's Point on Saturday. The banks won with 71 runs to 37.

At the canteen grounds on Saturday Victoria College defeated the royal dockyard team. The score was: 1st innings, College 41, Dockyard 40; 2nd innings, College 42, Dockyard 21, after three men at bat.

The Albion Club succeeded in making 93 runs in their game with the Victoria Club, but that was not enough to beat the older team. The Victorias made 119.

THE GUN.

The Victoria and Union clubs shot an interesting match at Macaulay's Point on Saturday. The scores were: Union Club—F. S. Maclure, 15; H. Coombe, 14; F. G. White, 14; F. Hewlings, 21; H. Barnard, 12; C. W. Minor, 19; B. H. John, 16; J. C. Maclure, 20; J. M. Langley, 13; total, 160. Victoria—W. Adams, 16; O. Weiler, 16; H. N. Short, 18; W. Henly, 15; W. Bickford, 13; G. Giles, 14; W. White, 15; R. Jackson, 11; J. Thompson, 12; E. Grigg, 12; total, 142.

A Morbid Individual.

Under the caption, "Contemptible Conduct," the British Columbia Commonwealth, of New Westminster, thus exposes a local "patriot:" "A New Westminster man is at present busily engaged in the pleasurable task of forwarding to Mr. Dobie—from whom whilst here he received some favors—newspapers, cuttings and information of any kind that will serve the purpose of discrediting the present social, financial and climatic conditions of the Royal City and depreciate the character of our province in general. By thus carefully providing whatever is a local shortcoming, whilst of course doing nothing to set forth the many countervailing advantages, the correspondent in question aids Mr. Dobie in the task, for which he is busily preparing, of making a savage renewed attack upon our mainland district and its resources in a leading English newspaper. Strange to say, the man who thus helps to "foul his own nest," is a Westminster citizen who is apparently doing very well, and has certainly been able to show in the past that there is money in a certain special form of culture. There are unfortunately those amongst her own people who are New Westminster's worst enemies." The Mr. Dobie referred to is the person who had a violent tirade against British Columbia in general and Westminster in particular published a short time ago in the Manchester (Eng.) Examiner. The tissue of falsehood of which it was composed was ably refuted in a letter to the same paper by Mrs. Alice Boddington, of the Fraser Valley.

For the Next Show.

It is understood, says the Seattle Poultry Keeper, that a Seattle breeder has sent $125 east for two pens (five each) of Buff Leghorns and Cornish Indian games. Another has $35 on deposit with an eastern yard to bind trade for first choice of trio of Light Brahmas. Still another has several settings each of Buff Leghorns and Cornish Indian Games, eggs from imported stock setting. One eastern breeder claims to have orders aggregating $700 for stock, to be delivered in Washington in time for the poultry show. It is plain to be seen, even by him who runs, that our fanciers are going to show the grandest lot of birds ever gotten together in Washington or on the coast, at the show which opens January 9, 1892." With all their importations they will have to get good ones to beat the Victoria birds that carry off prizes on the Sound annually.

A Lady Stenographer's Troubles

NEW YORK, June 13.—A special to the New York Herald from Atlanta says: A sensational story was suppressed in the newspapers here on Saturday last after it had been put in type. About a week ago Miss Bertha Pierson, of Detroit, Mich., arrived in Atlanta to accept a situation as stenographer with J. D. Tolleson, president of the new bank opened in the Kimball House. Tolleson was cashier of the famous Mercantile Bank which failed several years ago, and spent a year in jail for contempt of court because he would not disgorge. The young lady had been recommended highly to Tolleson; her appearance and behavior were in keeping with her recommendations. Miss Pierson secured board in a family in which Frank Weldon, a member of the Constitution staff, was also a boarder. Several days ago the lady of the house told Mr Weldon that Miss Pierson was being daily insulted by Tolleson; that she had no friends here, and was compelled to endure the behavior because she did not have money enough to get back. Mr. Weldon, in company with Remsen Crawford, at once called at Tolleson's bank and the three went into a private room, when Weldon indignantly notified Tolleson that unless he immediately ceased his persecution of his stenographer he would handle him in such a manner as he deserved. Hot words ensued, and Tolleson drew a pistol on the newspaper man. The attention of the young lady, who was in an adjoining room, was attracted. She ran in, and, recognizing Mr. Weldon, and realizing the situation, snatched the pistol out of the banker's hands. She then accused him openly of his perfidy, but breaking down, entreated the newspaper men to let the matter drop for fear of more serious results. Miss Pierson was, of course, discharged by the banker, who succeeded in keeping the affair out of print.

Will be Arbitrated.

The dispute between the Government and the owners of the Birdcage-walk property expropriated by the Government will go to arbitration. The appraisement of Messrs. E. W. Haynes and J. J. Austin was not satisfactory to the owners, who have appealed, and appointed the following as their arbitrators: Mr. F. Pemberton for Mr. Williams, Mr. George Byrnes for Mr. A. A. Mason, Mr. Helsterman for Mrs. Green. Mr. Wm. Wilson is the Government arbitrator. They will begin their work this week.

COAL

The New Vancouver Coal Mining & Land Co., L'd.

(FORMERLY THE VANCOUVER COAL CO.),

ARE THE LARGEST COAL PRODUCERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

THE NANAIMO COAL (Used principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes). | THE SOUTH FIELD COAL (Steam Fuel).

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL (House and Steam Coal) are mined by this Company only.

THE "NANAIMO" COAL gives a large percentage of Gas, high Illuminating Power, unequalled by any other bituminous Gas Coal in the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE "SOUTH FIELD" COAL is now used by all the Leading Steamship Lines on the Pacific.

THE "NEW WELLINGTON" COAL, which was introduced early in the present year, has already become a favorite fuel for domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several Mines of the Company are connected with their Wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all states of the tide. Special dispatch is given to Mail and Ocean steamers.

DECORATING THE GRAVES.

The Knights of Pythias at Ross Bay Cemetery Yesterday Afternoon.

Grand Chancellor Hughes Delivers the Orations at the Graves.

About seventy-five members of Far West and Sunset lodges, K. of P., met at their hall on Government street yesterday afternoon and marched to Ross Bay cemetery, where they decorated the graves of deceased brethren. Those who possessed flower gardens had been very generous, and the knights were therefore enabled to decorate the graves very prettily.

Grand Vice-Chancellor Hughes delivers the following orations over the different graves:

Brother Knights: The Order of the Knights of Pythias proclaims to the world that its province is one of mercy to mankind. Its aim, to relieve the distressed, to visit the sick, to watch at the bedside of a dying brother; bury the dead, care for the widow, and educate the orphan. But its mission does not end with the fulfilment of these duties. As we honored the living, so we honor the dead. Our brothers whom we knew and loved in the close, tender and enduring ties which bound us together in life, lie cold and silent in the consecrated tomb. The familiar voices that administered or responded to the solemn obligations are now hushed forever on earth. The eyes that looked into our own with the responsive glances of Friendship, Charity and Benevolence, will gaze upon us no more. The hands that gave us true Pythian grasp lie motionless; the warm hearts are pulseless now in the sanctuary of their icy bosoms. The generous souls that thrilled so promptly and so often to the manly sympathies of Pythianism have risen from the tenement of clay to their immortal mansions in the skies. They have left their own Castle Hall below to travel the valley of the shadow of death to the glorious and everlasting Lodge on high. We have now assembled to pay our tribute of respect and affection to their memory.

Brothers: As we stand around the grave of our deceased brother, the late Richard Hunter, and place wreaths of flowers on the green sod which covers his mortal remains, the thought comes to our minds that some day our spirits shall return to the God that gave them. We know not how soon the time may come for us to go hence forever. Decay and death are written on every living thing. The cradle and the coffin appear before us at the same time, and the intervening space seems scarcely a span. It is strange, notwithstanding the evidences of mortal frailty which surround us on every side, that the sound of the tolling bell so often falls on ears that give no heed to the solemn admonition. Let us strive to live that the summons which shall call us hence will find us prepared to give a good account of ourselves at the bar of the great judge before whom we must all appear.

We will now pass on to the grave of our late brother Geo. Frye.

The second place in the home of the dead is assigned to a brother, who when dying left behind him footprints on the sands of time. While we mourn his loss let us strive to emulate his virtues. Let us fervently promise by this flower-bedecked grave, that, though gone from our sight we shall ever cherish his memory green in our hearts, until the archangel's trump shall proclaim that time is no more. We bow with uncovered heads to the inevitable, and recognize the inestimable value of the life whose loss we so deeply feel and for whom we mourn. He is not dead. While we speak the solemn word, death, watching angels are whispering life, life, life. We are nearer home today than we have ever been before; nearer the place where we may cast all burdens down.

Leaves have their time to fall
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath
And stars to set—but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, Oh Death.

Brothers:—The late Frank Campbell sleeps in this portion of Ross Bay cemetery. His name was a household word in every home throughout this country. He was respected, loved and admired by all. Beside his beloved wife, joined in death, as they were in life, lies a charter member of our first lodge. His memory lives in our hearts. No blemish or spot tarnished his name and his kind face will never be forgotten. It is impossible to pay a tribute to the memory of one who was a pioneer of our country and a founder of Pythianism on our shores. Our hearts are full of sad yet sweet remembrances of our departed brother, who, in his Pythian life was a good adviser and a true Knight. Place your offerings of beautiful flowers on his grave and let us cherish the thought that our brother has gone home a little while before us. He is safe now with his God and Saviour, and when we reach the happy shore friends divided now shall meet, shall meet to part no more.

Since we last met to place floral offerings on the graves of our deceased members another of our beloved order has been laid to rest in God's acre. Side by side David F. and John T. Fee sleep beneath the green roof of that dark mansion whose chambers all must occupy. In the glory of manhood they were called away and two names are on the death roll of our lodge. We cannot begin to approach anything like a proper appreciation of the void that has been created in the household by the departure of two noble men. Decrepit age and vigorous life, blooming youth and helpless infancy know not how soon death, the natural sequence of life, shall come.

Oh God, the protector of all who trust in Thee, without whom nothing is strong, nothing is holy, increase and multiply upon us thy mercy. Give unto us an increase of Friendship, Charity and Benevolence. Let thy continual pity cleanse and defend us and, because we cannot continue in safety without thy assistance preserve us evermore by thy help and goodness. Amen.

We assemble again, brothers, around the grave of a true knight and respected citizen. The late A. A. Green was one whose charity knew no bounds The aged and infirm, the widow and orphan, lost a true friend when our esteemed brother passed away to his eternal reward. The hands now stilled in death guided and supported the weak and poor. He labored to promote the happiness of mankind, and when tablets of brass and monuments of stone have crumbled to dust the name of A. A. Green will shine in the galaxy of the world's chosen. It is an inspiring hope that when we separate here on earth at the summons of death's angel, and when a few more years have rolled over the heads of these remaining, if faithful unto death, we shall meet our brother in heaven, our eternal home, there to dwell in the presence of our Heavenly Father, and go no more out forever.

Brothers:—Here lies the first member of our order buried in this cemetery. William Slater died on the 16th January, 1884. Eight years have passed away since we laid our lamented brother to rest; but his many noble qualities remain fresh in our memory. It is a pleasing thing to contemplate that when we die we will not be forgotten. The busy world will roll on; but loving hands will place flowers on our graves and friendships formed on earth will never be broken. Though farewells are spoken the ardent wish remains for the meeting again in a better world where tears and parting are unknown. Like the flowers we place on this grave, man cometh forth and is cut down. We are thus reminded of the uncertainty of human life and the frailty of all things earthly.

May our heavenly father direct and assist us that we may be prepared for the great change which will surely come that it may redound to our eternal good.

Sir Knights and Brothers:—We assemble around the tomb of one who was a bosom friend and schoolmate of the younger members of Far West Lodge. Beneath the green sod lies the mortal remains of Frederick Randolph. Peacefully slumber on thy hallowed bed. Life on earth ends in death, and death is but the dark door to another life which has no end. Thou art where friend meets friend. Thy spirit hovers o'er us, freed from earthly cares and tribulations. On that golden shore, in the haven of eternal bliss, the friendships formed on earth, and which cruel death has severed, will never more be broken.

Before concluding it is my sad duty to remind you that two brothers passed away and are sleeping in other places. The late Brother Arthur Williams was drowned and the sea refused to give up its dead, Brother W. E. Ousterhout died at his home. The memory of our departed brothers is enshrined in our hearts, and although we are not permitted to place our decorations on their graves we still cherish the happy thought that the chain of friendship, charity and benevolence which bound us on earth will clasp tighter when we meet above.

Friends and Brothers: Our solemn services are ended. We thank you, one and all, for the manifest interest you have taken in our ceremonies. We, as Pythians, love our order. Our brethren are bound to us by ties so strong that naught but death can part us. And when, by the mysterious providence of Him who shapes our destiny, a link in our chain is broken, the tears involuntarily flow and our hearts are burdened with grief. As honest mourners we follow to the grave those who are called before us, thus fulfilling one of the covenants to the living.

Our Father who art in Heaven, be with us we pray Thee, as we journey hence to our respective homes, and grant that when the final summons shall come, we may be permitted to enter into that Kingdom, eternal in the heavens, where sorrow and affliction are unknown.

The people of this province are to be congratulated on the decision of Judge Dugas to the effect that the legislation of the Federal Parliament, making lotteries illegal, is constitutional. This judgment will, in all probability, close all the private lotteries, against many of which actions have been brought, and which will now be tried. Whether the decision will hold against the Provincial Lottery, which has been constituted by special provincial legislation, is a question legal authorities seem to doubt, because the Quebec Act has been allowed by the Dominion government.

Judge Dugas expressly declares in his judgment that he does not take in consideration any other point which might incidentally be raised in favor of a lottery established in virtue of a Provincial act, so that the Provincial Lottery is not directly affected by the decision. The Montreal Daily Witness, Wednesday, June 1st, 1892.
